Nature in the Glass!

The Orange Wine Festival is a pioneering event in promoting wines that respect the environment and the tradition of winemaking. The festival began in 2012 in Izola (Slovenia), when naturally produced low-intervention wines were still a niche product for a few experts.

Since then, the demand for natural wines has grown steadily, as more and more consumers are looking for authentic and ethical products. They want to taste the true expression of the grape and the terroir, and to support producers who care about the future of the planet. The Orange Wine Festival offers them a unique opportunity to meet the winemakers and to taste their natural wines.

The Orange Wine Festival presents the amazing diversity and quality of skin-contact (orange) wines and natural sparkling wines from various countries, regions and producers. These wines are made with minimal intervention, preserving the natural expression of the grapes and the terroir and attract more and more enthusiasts to the world of wine.

Don't miss this exciting opportunity to catch a glimpse of the wine world of the future!
